- 3. The approval of a Ministry of the Merchant Fleet T/O by the State T/O Commission was performed in the following manner:
 - a. The MMF field organization in need of a new agency drew up a chart stating the function and the financial personnel needs of such an agency.
 - b. The chart, which must include justifications for each proposed T/O position, was then signed by the Merchant Fleet Minister or his deputy and forwarded to the appropriate State T/O Commission section chief (e.g., for the Ministries of the Railroads or the Merchant and River Fleets, the responsible section was called the Transportation Section).
 - c. In the presence of a Merchant Fleet Ministry representative (sometimes also the representative of the field organization which originated the proposed agency) the proposed T/O was discussed, and approved or disapproved by the State T/O Commission. Usually the commission tended to reduce the proposed T/O as much as possible, even to the detriment of the new agency.
- 4. After securing the approval of the State T/O Commission, MMF agency T/O's had to be registered with the regional finance administration to which the organization would be assigned. These district, city, and regional finance administrations were subordinate to the USSR Ministry of Finance and were authorized to approve all funds needed by prospective agencies. The finance administrations exercised a powerful control over USSR organizations by means of an annual T/O registration (when it examined organization budgets) and periodic checking of the organizations' bookkeeping. Most finance administration officials were bureaucrats and bribetakers, and even chiefs of large organizations and members of Party committees feared them.
- 5. During the annual registration period (March through the first half of April), all USSR Merchant Marine organizations were required to submit budgets and production plans for approval to the appropriate financial administration. Registration was performed in accordance with instructions issued by the Council of People's Commissars in March 1941; all organizations were required to produce the following documentation:
 - a. Two copies of the original agency T/O which had been certified with the seal of the directorate to which the agency was subordinate. The standard form of such a document is given below:

- 1. A detailed explanation of each item of expense (actual or estimated). "Emergency funds" /See 5b "10" were for the salaries of persons who did occasional work not performed by T/O personnel. "Emergency funds" were paid for the following expenses:
 - (1) Minor repair of chairs, tables, keys, etc.
 - (2) Washing of curtains, table cloths, etc.
 - (3) Hiring of extra stenographers during conferences, etc.
 - (4) Gardeners' salaries.
 - (5) Preparations for anniversaries of revolution

"Other expenses" /See 5B "11" were minor expenses which could not be foreseen, and which did not exceed 20 rubles for each bill. Items included in this category were:

- (1) Brooms, pails, whisk brooms, etc.
- (2) Newspapers and magazines (as a rule, a single copy of Pravda and the merchant fleet magazine).
- (3) Tickets for duty travel on local river steamers.
- (4) Payment for water supply and sewage services.
- (5) Telephone expenses.

(Allowances for "emergency funds" and other allowances were generally not enough to answer the needs. Also, if each item in the estimated expense account was not explained in a very detailed manner, it was deleted.)

e. A list of the officials who were granted personal salaries. The form for this document was as follows:

Officials Granted Personal Salaries

Payment for (total sum here, and date of registration)

No. in order Name Official Position wage salary of order

The Ministry of the Merchant Fleet employed about 75-80 people who earned personal salaries. These salaries were paid to persons possessing special experience or knowledge. Regulations governing the payment of such salaries follow:

- (1) To be granted a personal salary for a member of his organization, the chief of the organization had to make a request to the next higher organization, which in turn transferred the request to the chief directorate. If approved thus far, the request was sent to the MF Minister.
- (2) If approved by the minister, the request was sent to the State T/O Commission.
- (3) The State T/O Commission, if it approved the request, informed the applicative ministry of its approval.
- (4) Although an employee was entitled to receive a personal salary from the date the ministry authorized it, the salary did not commence until the date on which the request for it had been approved by the organizational finance administration.
- (5) The procedure for granting a personal salary usually took two months from the time of the original request until the final approval by the financial administration.
- f. A list of employees entitled to longevity allowances. This form was as follows:

Employees Entitled to Longevity Allowances
No. in order	Name	Official position	Base wage	Amount of allowance	Grounds for allowance	No. of order

- g. A list of employees entitled to allowances other than personal or longevity allowances. This category included the following:
 - (1) Allowances for knowledge of a foreign language to persons serving with steamship companies.
 - (2) Allowances for persons assigned lower wages as a result of a reduction in the T/O wage scale; this allowance was equal to the difference between the old and new T/O wage.
- h. An estimation of the tonnage per navigational period for steamship companies, the gross production (estimated in rubles) for plants, the annual tonnage transloaded at ports, and the cubic meters of earth moved per year under the direction of sea route directorates.
- 1. An account of the organizational expenses incurred during the past fiscal year. This document had to be certified by the chief of the organization and the chief bookkeeper.

25V	4
201	J

- J. An estimation of the expenses incurred from the beginning of the current fiscal year until the day of T/O registration with the financial administration. This document was signed by the chief of the organization and the chief bookkeeper.
- 6. All the above-mentioned documents /See paragraph 57 had to be forwarded to the local financial administration before the date set for the annual registration of T/Os. This date was determined by the financial administrations. If the documents were late for registration, the financial administration stopped the bank credit of the tardy organization.
- 7. Approved organizational T/Os and budgets bore the following financial administration (round) stamps:

Registered (no. of the registration card)
No. of personnel with the organization

(Total payroll) per year

(Signature of the chief of the organization)

Registered no.

Estimated administrativeexecutive expenses per year

(Signature of the head of the financial administration)

- 8. When the organizational T/O's and budgets were approved by the financial administrations, organizations were issued special registration cards which authorized these organizations to withdraw from banks the amounts of money necessary to the approved organizational expenses.
- 9. The T/O of administrative organizations were periodically reduced on the following occassions:
 - a. When the State T/O Commission ordered a general staff reduction. Reductions of this type were usually addressed to a ministry, and demanded a reduction of five per cent in each of the ministry's organizations. Determination of which personnel were to be eliminated was left to the discretion of the ministry.
 - b. When ordered by the local financial administrations. Inspectors of financial administrations could decide to eliminate T/O positions.

-7-

- c. When a T/O position remained vacant for one or two years.

 Reductions of this type were automatic in accordance with a decree of the USSR Council of Ministers dated 15 September 1946.
- d. If production of the current year was less than that of the previous year.
- 10. Violations of T/O provisions (false statements about finances and personnel use, etc.) were severely punished. First violations were punished by a fine of 1,500-2,000 rubles; repeated violations by chiefs and chief bookkeepers were punished by prosecution in court.
- 11. The following admistrative organizations were not subject to T/O registration:
 - a. Ministry of the Armed Forces
 - b. Ministry of the Interior and Ministry of State Security (MVD and MGB)
 - c. Party and Komsomol committees
 - d. Executive committees of workers' soviets
 - e. Ministry of Justice courts and attorney general offices.

The above-mentioned organizations issued their own T/Os bypassing the approval of the State T/O Commission. Control of T/O provisions was performed within each organization.

- 12. The appointment of persons to the following positions in the MMF administrative organizations (as was true of all USSR organizations) had to be individually approved by the State T/O Commission:
 - a. Chiefs and deputy chiefs of MMF organizations, divisions, directorates, and groups
 - b. Chief engineers and engineers
 - c. Senior technicians and technicians
 - d. Senior inspectors and inspectors
 - e. Senior planners and planners
 - g. Bookkeepers

- o. Administration chiefs (zavkhoz)
- p. Chauffeurs of passenger vehicles
- q. Charwomen
- r. Messengers
- s. Watchmen
- t. Dispatchers in all organizations except port and shipping agencies
- u. Senior tariff experts and tariff experts
- v. Inspectors
- 13. There were certain types of T/O positions within the Merchant Fleet Ministry which, although subject to the approval of the State T/O Commission /See paragraph 37, were exempt from registration with the financial administrations /See paragraph 47. A list of these T/O designations follows:
 - a. In the steamship companies
 - (1) Steam and diesel mechanics
 - (2) Parts designers who were paid by the piece
 - (3) "Deviators" /sic/ (personnel who corrected compass deviation) and "radio-navigators" (personnel who navigated by use of radio)
 - (4) Seagoing personnel
